33 New Members Selected By Waubanakee, Blue Key

Waubanakee and Blue Key, the men's national undergraduate honorary societies at Middlebury, tapped eight and twenty-three men respectively, at ceremonies held in Mead Chapel last Friday and Saturday.

Seniors chosen for Waubanakee were Douglas Binning, James Hunt, Patrick McKegney, James Ralph and Wallace Short. Juniors selected were Walter Beevers, George Limbach and Richard Makin.

Blue Key tapped five seniors, thirteen juniors, and five sophomores. The seniors were Robert Black, Joseph Durkin, Warren Fuller, Karl Limbach and Ernest Lorch. Juniors: Ellis Baker, Robert Beattie, David Bridges, Winslow Cobb, Garland Corey, Alfred Dennis, Frank Gianforti, Albert Gollnick, Melvyn Gussow, Harold Higgins, Robert Killeen, Thomas Lamson, and Alan Wright. Sophomores: Cyrus Anfindsen, Mark Benz, Robert Keating, Edward McDowell, and Ronald O'Keefe.

Two other awards were given by the Blue Key. Charles Sykes was given the Blue Key Trophy as the freshman who has done most for his class. The Blue Key Scholarship of $100 was awarded to Jonathan Brand.

All eight of the men tapped for Waubanakee, the highest honor an undergraduate man can achieve at Middlebury, were already members of Blue Key.

Stratton Presents Awards, Scholarships At Assemblies

Prior to Blue Key Tapping ceremonies at Chapel assemblies last week, President Stratton made several annual awards and scholarships to deserving students.

Ann Singleton '55 was voted by the members of her class to receive the Optima Prize of $200 as the junior woman most typical of Middlebury in character, scholarship and personality. Miss Singleton, a junior counselor, was co-director of the 1954 Variety Show. This year, vice president of WUA, she is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority. Miss Singleton received a gold medal engraved with her name as part of the prize. The Optima award was established in 1929 in memory of Henry Hovart Vail, a Middlebury graduate and trustee, by Mr. and Mrs. Roger S. Baldwin in appreciation of the benefits derived by their daughter Catherine during her undergraduate years at Middlebury.

The Mortar Board Cup was presented to Mary Hickcox '56 by the Middlebury Chapter of Mortar Board for showing the greatest interest in the college through extra-curricular participation and high scholarship attainment. Miss Hickcox is a member of the Conference Policy Committee, WAA, and Kappa Kappa Gama. She is also house president of Weybridge and a reporter for the CAMPUS.

Joan Grenier '57 was the recipient of the Marion L. Young scholarship of $125. This award was established and maintained by the Middlebury Alumnae Association, and is given annually to the freshman woman who is outstanding in scholarship, personality and athletics. Miss Grenier is a member of Pi Beta Phi, and was recently elected secretary of WAA for the coming year.

The Women's Forum Undergraduate Scholarship of $200 was awarded to Margaret Dickie '56 on the basis of service and need.

Two Fife awards of $100 each were presented to John Briggs '55 and James Durham '55 for excellence in economics and sportsmanship.

The Merrill public speaking prizes of $30, $20, $15, and $10, were given respectively to Alan Entine, Edward MacDowell, Edward Schwerdtle, and Elizabeth Mitchell, all of the class of 1956. The Parker Public speaking prizes of $30 and $20 for freshmen excellence in speaking were awarded to Konrad Frey '57 and Edward Hopkins '57.

Disk Release Set By Variety Show

Selections from "Just Around the Corner," the Junior Weekend Variety Show, will be available on records about the first week in June, Ellis Baker '55, assistant director, announced this week.

The recordings, including all the music and some of the dialogue from the show with the entire original cast, was taped last Wednesday at McCullough gym by Thomas Papke '56. The tape has been sent to the National Broadcasting Company in New York to be pressed into 12-inch long playing records, lasting slightly under 42 minutes. The sale price will be $3.

Orders were solicited last week in dormitories to determine the demand, but a limited number of additional copies will be available to those who did not order them.

Midd Students Plan For Summer Abroad; Continent, Middle East Countries Included

By Geraldine Raymond

School lets out, summer comes, and the great exodus to Europe begins, whether the reason is education, culture or sheer pleasure, college students from all over the United States converge on the piers of New York, Montreal and Quebec to board boats traveling to the continent. Middlebury's students are no exception, as 23 will journey across the Atlantic this summer.

Educational Tour

Nancy Dreher '54 leaves on June 21 aboard the "Empress of Austria" on a tour sponsored by the Bureau of University Travel. The members will travel through England, France, Switzerland, Italy, Germany, and the Netherlands. College professors will lecture during the tour, and students may take notes on the talks and receive college credits for the trip.

Experiment in Living

Seven Middlebury students have been chosen to participate in the Experiment in International Living. According to this plan, students live with a European family for half of their stay on the continent and travel during the other half. In most instances the families speak English, so knowledge of the language of the country visited is not essential for the students traveling on the Experiment plan. Nancy Wilson '54 and Barbara Hammann '55 will stay with families in Spain, and Alice Dickerman '55 and Charlotte Mugford 56 will both go to Switzerland. Heloise Gilmore '56 journeys to Holland while Beverly Watkins '56 and Allan Hawthorne '57 will visit France.

Cultural Values

Many students will be traveling during the summer in connection with organized student tours. Barbara Knight '54, Elinor Osborn '54, Lois Wanstall '54, and Judith Berry '55 are members of a group led by Miss Rose Martin, associate professor of Spanish, under the direction of Intercollegiate Tours. They will leave on the "Georgic" on June 29 for a two-month tour of seven countries, their focus on the absorption of cultural values.

Martha Morgan '55 will travel on Sita Tour's Viking Tour which includes short stops in Norway, Sweden, and Denmark in addition to the central and southern European countries. Miss Morgan also plans to visit relatives in England. When the "Queen Elizabeth" sails on June 10, Anne Johnson '55 will be aboard as a member of the Marsh Tour.

Lynn McCormick '54 leaves for Europe by plane on July 9. After traveling around the continent, she will join a tour which includes Greece, Egypt, Syria and the Holy Land.

William Joyce '54 will travel aboard a small Dutch company's liner. He will see the countryside of Holland, Germany, Switzerland, Italy, and France and spend a month in England. Robert Whitney '54 and three of his friends from Cornell University leave on June 1 for a "grand tour" of ten European countries.

Transportation Problem

It was reported in last week's CAMPUS that the Rutland Railroad passenger service has been permanently discontinued. This week it is reported that the State Liquor Board has leased the Middlebury station for conversion to a liquor store.

All of which leaves Middlebury with a transportation problem. Accessability, although certainly not the only factor in the choosing of a college by prospective freshmen, is nevertheless an important consideration. With such limited means of transportation a decrease in applicants to Middlebury is a definite possibility. In the future it should also prove more difficult to entice guest lecturers and concert performers to the college.

The College Bulletin for this past year states that, "Middlebury is one of the main stations on the Rutland Railroad, which connects it directly with Boston, New York, Albany, and Montreal." This statement, of course, will have to be changed.

Instead of omitting it entirely, we would prefer to see the substitution of some provision for transportation improvement. Our suggestion would be a college sponsored bus service, connecting Middlebury with Port Henry, New York, particularly to be in operation before and after vacations.

The New Grad

Four years fly fast.

The college student quickly completes the cycle from the inquisitive freshman to the social-minded sophomore to the awakening junior to the inquisitive senior, and then receives his diploma - and the title of College Graduate. The New Grad.

But the path that leads from the New Grad to the Old Grad is a short one. It is an easy but an inadvisable path to follow.

The Old Grad has been discussed in previous issues of the CAMPUS. His prototype is the groper, whose desire to do good for the college is tempered with his disinterest in the college, except at reunions.

His loss of contact with his school is coupled with his over enthusiasm for its activities, particularly sports. This sort of Old Grad is, in short, a caricature of a man trying to relive the past in the present, and not knowing how to do it.

In a few weeks the class of '54 will have completed its four year cycle and will enter the world or the army under the title of New Graduates.

How long they will remain New Graduates is a matter for consideration. When their interest in the college becomes one merely of paying dues and sporadically attending reunions, they have become what we call Old Grads.

It is our hope that the New Grads of '54 and of other years will always remain New Grads. This can only be done through an active participation in alumni and other college affairs. Careful reading of such publications as the alumni Newsletter and the CAMPUS and the criticizing of them, a "talking-up" of the college among friends and prospective freshmen, and a continuing awareness of the college and its changing physical plant and intellectual atmosphere can keep the New Grad from becoming a pathetic Old Grad.

And when reunion time comes, the alumnus will still have a tie with the college that is closer than vague memories of a distant youth. He will return to the college to see it and understand it as it is in the present and not only as he remembers it from the past.

the All-America Hockey team of 1953 and he captained the Middlebury team the past season. Carnival king this winter, he also played on the baseball team and was recently awarded the Stabile Trophy. He has been on the Men's Assembly, the Athletic Council, and is a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity. He is an Economics and Political Science major.

James Hunt was president of the Men's Undergraduate Association this year. He has been a member of the Conference Policy Committee, the SEPC, the Student Life Committee, and he has played varsity basketball and golf. Vice-president of Sigma Phi Epsilon and a Dean's List student, he is a current holder of the Charles Baker Wright Award and has received the Dutton Fellowship to study next year at the London School of Economics.

Patrick McKegney is a member of Skyline, past president of ATO, and was a junior Phi Beta Kappa. He has also been on the track team. He will start Yale Medical School in the fall.

James Ralph has held all of the offices in his class including president, his freshman and junior years, and has been treasurer of both Chi Psi and the Newman Club. He has been a member of the Conference Policy Committee, the Chapel Policy Committee, the Men's Assembly, a justice on the Judicial Board, co-chairman of the Community Chest and of th Carnival Ball, and has been on the football and track teams. He will also begin Yale Medical School in the fall.

Wallace Short has been co-chairman of Conference, Chairman of the Christian Association, a member of Men's Assembly, former vice-president of the neutral men and presently a house privilege at Chi Psi. He has acted in several Variety Shows and plays, and most recently he had the lead in "The Golden Windows". He will continue his studies at Union Theological Seminary.

Walter Beevers is the new president of the Men's Assembly, president of the junior class and past-president of the Newman Club, co-chairman of this year's Religious Conference, a member of the Conference Policy Committee and the Judicial Board, and a Chi Psi. He also played varsity football for two years, and he is an English major.

George Limbach has been class treasurer and secretary. Next year's football captain, he was recently elected president of Sigma Phi Epsilon. He is a mathematics major.

Richard Makin will head Blue Key next year. He is vice-president of the junior class and served as president his freshman year. A geology major and member of Delta Kappa Epsilon, he has been in Men's Assembly and has played varsity football and baseball for three years.

The above eight were elected to Waubanakee by the three members initiated last year, Jeremy Foss, Edward Killeen, and Donald Menard.

Skyline Realizes Dream Of Two Years; Finishes Work On Cabin Near Breadloaf

By Nat Dickinson

Just about any Sunday morning of the Spring or Fall of the last two years, a number of thick-sawn boards could be seen inching their way laboriously up the side of a certain mountain range just south of Breadloaf. In case someone might wonder, each was usually accompanied by one or more Middlebury mountaineers. These, however, felt themselves insignificant in comparson, because they were merely part of the passing scene, while the boards were to be immortalized in Skyline's Dream: the new Mountain Club cabin.

Much Work

Did we say "cabin"? Actually it deserves a more magnificent title. At least "lodge", when one considers the months of man-and-woman-hours which have gone into its construction. One might ask Mal McConnell '54, Larry Dietter '55, Mal McCallum '56 or Jerry Lanese '55, for they have masterminded and supervised most of the work.

The cabin first came into the world in the fall of 1952, after having been a gleam in the respective eyes of Don Peach '53 and Herb Melchior '53, who discovered its prospective site the previous year while chopping their way across the wilderness. They came upon a small pond, about 100 by 25 yards in size, on the east side of the range, some 2500 feet above sea level. From then on it was just a matter of time.

Cutting Timber

Last year the foundations were laid on a rock ledge overlooking the pond and the White Mountains. Then the most grueling part of the work was begun. Three-year-old, windfall spruce logs were cut and hauled to the site to provide well-seasoned walls. Some of these were as much as two feet in diameter. Of course in the meantime a good, usable trail had to be cleared and built for three miles up from the end of a logging road, which was in itself some five miles from a main road.

This year McConnell's men could start the more gratifying job of raising the walls, though a great deal of timber remained to be cut and hauled. Lumber for floor and roof was carried piece by piece up from the road. By great effort, workers have now brought the cabin to a state of habitability, with the roof all on except for a small portion which will soon be finished.

Its floor measurements are 16 feet by 12 feet, upon which we are informed that 14 human beings will sleep comfortably. The cabin is somewhat like a Swiss Chalet in style, with a steeply pitched roof, and log gables. Porch, loft, and shingled roof will add atmosphere besides being useful once in a while.

"Work Hikes"

In case anyone noticed those appearingly innocuous "work hike" announcements which have appeared almost weekly in the News Notes, that's how most of the work was accomplished. Some hardened laborers and many innocent novices expecting a lark in the sparkling green woods invariably showed up on Sunday morning and returned to campus, pounds lighter or worlds wiser.

Some of the hardier Club members spent both Christmas and Spring vacations working on the mountain top. Conditions could have been better, considering that some seven feet of snow collects there yearly. One wintry day, McConnell's thermometer registered 16 degrees below zero.

Snow And Rain

Last April the work crew slogged up the hill with happy thoughts which they soon wished they could exchange for snowshoes. They spent five days working in a variety of weather conditions. It snowed and rained in regular shifts. The situation was not bettered by the fact that they had forgotten their tent and hadn't had the foresight to provide the cabin with a roof. Also, they spent quite a bit of time hoping that the bear that was making those tracks wasn't as hungry as they were.

A major accomplishment was the bearing of the wood stove up the trail this Spring. Still, however, about 300 board feet of lumber and shingles for the roof are waiting hopefully at the bottom of the trail.

Completion Soon

It is hoped that the lodge will be completely finished by Commencement. However, most of the hardest work has been done, and the cabin has a bona fide roof at last. It is going to be officially opened and christened this coming weekend. The name has not yet been decided upon. It ought to be quite a cabin warming party. Anyone for the mountain top?

Four Cadets Given Awards At Inspection

Cadet Robert L. Dorn '57 of Manhasset, N. Y., was rated the freshman who has demonstrated greatest proficiency and aptitude in military subjects, it was recently announced by the department of military science and tactics.

Dorn was one of four students given awards for outstanding performance as ROTC cadet's during the past year. The presentations were made as part of the annual federal inspection held today.

President Stratton presented the medal representing the Lt. Colonel Stuart Williams award.

Other students who received awards include Cadet Colonel John Briggs '55, Cadet Robert Keating '56, and Cadet Robert L. Lewandoski '57. They received the Sons of the American Revolution awards on the basis of character and leadership ability. Harold Burroughs, President of the Vermont chapter, made the presentations to one member of each class enrolled in the military course at Middlebury College.

The following cadets will attend the six-week ROTC summer camp at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, from June 19 to July 31, 1954: Stuart Bacon '55, John Briggs '55, David Corey '55, Charles Craig, Jr ,'55. Leroy Craig, Jr. '55, Gerald Gross '55, Denis Pfeifler '55, Burgess Reed, Jr. '55, Earl Samson '55, Andrew Sigourney '55, Allen B. Sinclair '55, David Stone '55, Robert Studley '55, Win Tremaine '55, Daniel Wright '55 and Mervin McCutcheon '56.

Accelerated courses in MST were taken by these students, as they have successfully completed both the sophomore and junior ROTC programs at Middlebury during the past year. Normally, the summer training is taken after three complete years of ROTC. Since they enrolled in the fall of 1952 as sophomores when only the first year of the program was offered, this acceleration was necessary to be eligibile for a commission in 1955.

Prize Watercolor Exhibited In Carr

In the studio area of Carr Hall is now hanging a group of student paintings recently exhibited at the New England Art Show of about twenty contributing colleges at Springfield, Massachusetts Museum of Fine Arts. The exhibition included entries from Williams, Amherst, Mount Holyoke, Smith and Bennington. Middlebury has exhibited for the past seven years and has virtually dominated the watercolor section by winning an award in each of those years.

The prize winning watercolor by James MacTiernan '54 is among those hung in the exhibition. As an award winner, MacTiernan plans to study in California.

Former award winners who have achieved distinction are: Miss Doris Mazon in 1946, formerly of the Newark Art Museum; Charles Kitchell in 1946, Art Director of Bloomingdales; Edward Harter, Graduate Student in Architecture, Yale School of Fine Arts; Alan Gussow in 1951 and 1952, winner of the Rome Prize in Painting and now in Italy.

New Liquor Store Planned For Depot

The new state liquor store is to be opened in Middlebury about July 1, according to Liquor Administrator Roger J. Sheridan.

Liquor board officials have leased the now idle Rutland Railway depot as the location for the store, which won approval of Middlebury voters at their March meeting. Sheridan reports that the station is being repainted and renovated for use as a liquor store. One of the conditions of the lease is that if the company does resume passenger service the lease can be broken.

Young GOP's Elect Officers

Alan Frese '55 and Susan Minot '57 were elected co-chairmen of the Young Republican Club, it was announced by Norman Kittel '54, the outgoing president. Also elected were Allen Wright '55, vice-chairman, James Barker '57, vice-chairman in charge of publicity, Heather Hamilton '57, recording secretary, James Walling '57, treasurer, and Wyman Rolph '57, corresponding secretary. John Ingram '57 was appointed social chairman.

Letter

To the editor:

Rejoice and be exceedingly glad, for the monsoon season appears to have left Middlebury for another spring. The sun once again has entered our lives! A beam seems to daze each one of us in one way or another. For some people this heavenly sphere resembles a huge irresistible magnet which draws them toward Dunmore. For others, it is a means of relaxation here on the hill. The two most absorbing activities appear to be sun bathing and sports. 'Tennis is THE spring sport for the campus as a whole. At least that is my feeling when I jam in my lunch, charge over to our courts to find all three of them in use. I can hardly believe that this hasn't happened to almost everybody most repeatedly. Pondering over the mathematics of the situation, I determined that if one twelfth of our population choose to play tennis from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., each single could last exactly twelve minutes. What's Middlebury going to do about this situation?

Austrian On Bowdoin Plan Changes Views About U.S.

By Henry McFarland

Konrad Karl Frey is a dark haired Middlebury student from Graz-Gosting, Austria. He came to the United States to study on his own initiative, and he choose Middlebury from the ranks of other colleges on the advice of a friend.

Now that he is here, Konrad is very glad that he came. "It has changed many false ideas that I had of life in America," he said. Konrad qualified the statement by saying that before he came to America he thought life here would be much different than it is in Europe, that everything would be very modern and up-to-date and fast. Actually, he said, "there is little difference."

Friendly Atmosphere

Konrad thinks that Middlebury is a very good liberal arts school, and one of the best scholastically. The friendly atmosphere of the campus, particularly between professor and student, impressed him greatly. "It is very good the way the professors try to help and work together with the students." He especially praised the many good members of the language staff.

Konrad is displeased at some of the restrictions placed on undergraduates at Middlebury. He cited compulsory chapel attendance as one of these, and compulsory attendance of classes as another. He pointed out that in European universities the only requirement for students is that they pass their examinations which, he added quickly, are very hard.

Lack Of Differences

In the long run, Konrad seemed more struck by the lack of differences between American and European cultures than by the differences. Food in the United States is quite different than in Europe, he said. Ketchup, Worchestershire sauce, and other seasonings are unknown in Europe, as are cereals. On the other hand, Europe has black bread which, Konrad acknowledged is a decided advantage. In northern Europe beer is commonly served with meals, while wine comes in southern Europe as contrasted to milk or coffee in the United States. Also, the largest European meal always comes at mid-day.

Another "cultural" difference between the two nations comes in male-female relationships. "In Europe," Konrad asserted, "girls are restricted more by their parents up to the age of 18. This applies to boys, too. After 18 life is freer."

Cheaper Lift Rates

Inevitably the conversation turned to skiing. Konrad said that he was surprised by the number of good skiers in this country. He hadn't thought the sport to be as widespread as it is. He added that Austrain mountains are higher and longer, and that the lift rates are cheaper. A new area in Austria has a tram lift three times the length of the lift at Stowe at which an all day ticket costs $1.80. Lines for the lift exist there as they do here, he added, because there are not facilities to accomodate all the skiers, particularly on weekends.

Konrad, who is spending only this year at Middlebury, declared that after spending a whole year in "conservative" Vermont, he was going to spend the summer traveling to California to get a good idea of what all America is like.

A Valuable Year

Next year he will be back at the University of Groz in his home town from where he will continue studying on his chemistry major. "In the meantime," he said, "my year in the United States has been a valuable one." He has greatly increased his understanding of America, and his English vocabulary. He likes America and Middlebury, particularly friendliness, the interest of Americans in things going on around them. He thinks Communism is a threat, but one which is overdone in America, and he dislikes discrimination in the South and northern fraternities. All in all, Konrad concluded, "I like it here."

Arctic Tester Named ROTC Armor Officer

Captain Joseph Sain has been assigned as armor officer to the Middlebury College ROTC unit, it was recently announced by the department of military science and tactics. He is replacing Captain Reinhold Herman who will be transferred to Germany this summer. This will allow the unit to maintain its strength of officers representing the three combat arms of the service.

Sain has just completed a two-year tour at Big Delta, Alaska, with the Arctic Test Branch of Army Field Forces. As test officer, he conducted research on armored vehicles, air-cooled engines and ammunition as well as studies in air-dropping supplies and equipment.

Previously, Sain served in World War II as Troop Commander in the 38th Cavalry Squadron. He took part in spearheading the First Army's drive and in leading reconnaissance units outside Paris, and was awarded several medals. He attended Western Reserve University and Illinois Institute of Technology.

Speaking about his Alaskan experiences, Captain Sain explains, "Most people have a misconception of living conditions and military operations when thinking of Alaska. Their thoughts are of snow and extreme cold weather. However, arctic operations are considerably more difficult during spring breaking and summer due to the extensive areas of tundra and muskeg."

Judiciary Council Alters Procedure

A change in Judicial Council procedure was recently announced by the Men's Judicial Board. In the future the group will acquaint the defendent with the charge before his case is considered by the Board. This has been made possible by the considerable backlog of cases covering many varied infractions of college rules which the council can use as precedents in future trials.

Three cases recently tried by the Judicial Council were approved by the Dean. Jerome Doolittle '55 has been placed on disciplinary probation until Nov. 29, 1954, for misrepresentation of his college I.D. rights in buying liquor. He also loses his college I.D. privileges until that date.

For violating the car code Dudley Samoiloff '56 has lost his car until the end of final exams, and George Sargent is deprived of car privileges until Jan. 24, 1955.

TheatreFundTetal Approaching $700

Contributions to the College Theater Fund have been flowing in from college organizations and sympathetic friends to a present total of approximately $700. The profits from the Faculty Show and the Modern Dance Group have not been recorded. The fund was established following the loss of the playhouse by fire last year for the purpose of building a new one.

Cash gifts have not been the only donations. Boxes of books and play scripts have been sent by Samuel French Inc. of New York and Williams College, and more have been offered by Amherst College and Dramatists' Play Service of New York. Also several boxes of costumes have been sent by Mr. Buddy Butterfield, Mrs. Holmes, and Mrs. Prudence Bussey. Additions to the depleted furniture and prop supply have come in from various town's people.

The list of campus contributions include: Variety Show - $56, "Don Juan in Hell" - $210, "The Golden Windows" - $100, Wig and Pen coffee sales - $9.40, and $100 sent by Ronald Hannah who expects to return to Middlebury next year after completing his term in the service.

Individual donors are:: Carolyn Allen, Audrey St. Clair, Mr. Warren Frost, Mr. Robert Herdman, Mrs. Slator, Mr. Carroll Rickert Jr., Mrs. Margaret Stillman, Julia Carter, Mary Manchester, Mrs. Janet Erzmann, Mrs. Margaret Wenton, and Josephine Dudley.

The University of Vermont has been generous in their loan of equipment.

QUESTION:
What makes a Lucky taste better?

ANSWER:
"IT'S TOASTED"
to taste better!

No question about it, Luckies taste better to thousands of college smokers.

No question about the reasons why Luckies taste better, either. Today, nearly everybody knows L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. And that fine tobacco is toasted to taste better.

"It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—brings Luckies' tobacco to its peak of flavor . . . tones up this light, mild, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better.

So enjoy better taste in your cigarette. Be Happy—Go Lucky!

"Campus" Surveys Students On '54 Issue Of "Frontiers"

By Margaret Dickie

This year's issue of "Frontiers" has in its first week of publication evoked much discussion. Therefore, the CAMPUS asked a number of students, "What is your opinion of this year's issue of 'Frontiers' ?"

An Individual Affair

Joan Waddell '56: "In general it has been improved. I think that the photography is a good addition except that it ought to be placed between the stories rather than in one bunch. I could respond to about one-third of the poetry and the rest of it left me completely cold. I especially liked "Contradiction" in the poetry. I think that Phinney's "An Individual Affair" states how many of us feel about the fact that New England colleges seem to exhibit the belief that students exist for the system of education rather than education existing for the student. I think that anyone who reads it cannot help but do some thinking on the subject."

Down To Earth

Evan Andersen '54: "The first impression is good, but about in the middle it is really down to earth, in fact it is below the earth. This issue of 'Frontiers' seems to be the opposite extreme of former 'Frontiers' in some parts. In general, I think that we should remember that we have taken advertising from the public for the magazine and we should be aware of them in our selection of material."

Original Touches

Janet Beem '55: "The form - - - the fact that there are advertisements and photography - - - makes it more appealing. The poetry is more understandable than it has been in the past. I think that Ratti in his "All the Fish in the Pool" evokes a very pathetic personality and situation quite effectively. Jon Brand's "That Mark Our Places" gives an original touch to old symbols."

Paula Boesch '54: "I think that Mel Gussow's article shows some critical thinking. I think that he wrote it tongue-in-cheek as a criticism of some of the men on this campus rather than of the town because anything he said about the town was said by the two fellows in the story and does not necessarily reflect the college's opinion of the town."

More Selective

Penny Martin '56: "I think that the magazine as a whole was very good and I was very pleased with it. The poetry was especially good. In each story there were certain parts which I felt were exceptional - - - for instance, the first two paragraphs of Brand's "Guided Tour." I think the magazine was much better than last year. One thing that improved it was the fact that it came out in one issue rather than in two which made it possible to be more selective."

Keep In Portfolio

James Ralph '54: I liked Mel Gussow's story, but it is the kind of satire that you shouldn't let run wild. I think that the story which is basically good should be kept in Gussow's own portfolio. In general, this issue is as good a one as they have ever put out. For the first two years which I was here, there was very little if anything that the average student could read and understand, but I think that it is improving along this line."

Jeanette Clarvoe '55: "I think that too much emphasis has been put on just one of the stories; there is a lot of other material which should be read. I wondered about the poetry. It might be my ignorance, but I didn't understand most of it and I wonder if the average reader could understand it. This issue is a big improvement over the past, though."

Controversy

Donald Miner '56: "I feel that the article which has caused so much controversy is wholly unfair to the people of Vermont and I certainly don't think that it will do anything to improve town and gown relations. 'Frontiers' should be more of a literary magazine and such articles as "Kiss Her In The Center" are not worthy of inclusion therein."

The Bye - Line

By Walt Mears

This being the last issue of the CAMPUS for the current school year, hearts and flowers remieniscences may be somewhat of a trend throughout the sheet, but sportswise it certainly is not out of place to give one last plug for the group of seniors who have given it "the old college try" for Midd during the past four years.

Last fall's football season seems almost ancient history now, with the spring monsoon over and the sun out at last, but it may refresh a few hazy memories to mention the outstanding efforts turned in by Captain Carey Smith, and by Joe Durkin, who spelled him in the captain's spot when he was sidelined during the season with an injury. Along with these men, seniors Jim Ashworth, Dick Davenport, Jake Taylor, George Atwell, and Slo Hollister rounded out their gridiron careers with the Panthers.

In winter sports, Jim Hunt, Ed Killeen, and Bob Perkins were Midd's fourth year basketball standouts; while Capttain Doug Binning, Pete Cooney, Don Menard, and Sam Patch kept the icy hill buzzing with hockey news. Rick Eliot and Gordie Ulmer were the two senior contenders on another outstanding Middlebury ski team.

The senior class is represented in spring sports this year by Captain Pete Cooney, Julie Hodges, and Bob Ducharme of the baseball squad, and by Captain Bob Kloster, Harry Myers, and Russ Briggs, the trackmen.

Monk Ogden, Bob Black, and Dick Davenport, captains of the lacrosse, tennis, and golf teams, are three more senior who have compiled outstanding sports records at Midd.

On the literary side of the picture, Editor A. C. Bass has already hung up his typewriter, while Ernie Lorch, Bush League Warren Fuller, Bob Black, and quizzical Pete Cooney have all been turned out to pasture with him.

To all these men, those who made the news and those who reported it, and to all the other seniors who have worked with and for Middlebury sports during their four years here, the Sports staff of the CAMPUS offer congratulations for their past accomplishments, and best wishes for success in the future.

Netmen Beat St. Mikes 8-1

The up and coming Middlebury tennis team pushed their record into the win column this week with an 8-1 victory over St. Michael's. This is the same score that the Midd -men won by in their last match with this club. In the singles, Don Collier won over Trombley 6-4, 6-0, and his running mate Patterson won over Fosket in three sets, 6-3, 6-8, 6-0. In the third slot, Vern Grey ousted LeBlanc by 6-1, 6-8, 7-5. Dollar followed with a quick 8-6, 6-1 victory, which put Midd in front 4-0. Then Jim MacTiernan dropped a tough one 2-6, 6-4, 6-3. Davidson countered by edging Kipp 6-0, 3-6, 6-3, and Midd went into the doubles with a comfortable 5-1 lead. In the doubles, the Merrimen took all three matches.

The number one team of Patterson-Grey won 6-4, 6-2, Collier-MacTiernan romped 6-3, 2-6, 8-6, and Davidson-Dollar finished up with 9-7, 3-6, 6-1 decision. An otherwise satisfactory day was marred only by a strong wind that hampered both teams in the singles.

The scheduled match with UVM had to be postponed because of the weather, but two matches will be played with the Cats on this coming Monday and Tuesday.

At the New Englands, held over on the Dartmouth courts, the Middlebury representatives Collier, Heminway, Black and Patterson all won first round matches, but were eliminated in the second round by superior playing. In the doubles it was the same story. Heminway-Black showed the way in their first round, but were unable to advance further. Collier and Patterson also won in the first round, and they too bowed out in the second. All things considered, it was a successful trip for the raquet boys, who came through with a very commendable performance against the top tennis competitors in New England. In the few days that remain, contests with Clarkson, Union, Vermont, and Dartmouth will be coming up.

Lacrossmen Top Mass 6-3

By Ed Thomson

Last Wednesday, on a muddy, rain soaked Porter Field, Middlebury took the measure of the University of Massachusetts lacrosse squad by a score of six to three.

The game was close throughout, but the rejuvenated Midd ten, aided by the recent return of veterans Bob Sullivan and Bob Killeen, along with some more fine goal tending by Ken Farrar, was able to bring in it's second victory in six outings.

The Blue and White opened fast by scoring three goals in the first period on successful thrusts by Killeen, Bill Fletcher and Bob Telfer, while UMass counted once on a score by Ed Stocki. The score remained three to one until the third quarter when Monk Ogden got one past the visitor's netminder, and Stocki tallied again. In the fourth period, Bob Gallagher and Sullivan assured Midd victory as each scored once. Lou Batchelder was credited with the visitor's last tally.

Defensively, Midd was much improved with Clive Coutts playing an outstanding game and the aforementioned Farrar, finally getting some well deserved support, making beautiful saves, particularly in the last quarter, when he turned back drive after drive.

The stickmen seem now to have reversed their early season form. After losing their first three tilts, Midd scored its first victory of the season against New England College, and then looked impressive while losing to Williams. Now, after defeating Massachusetts for their first home win, the future is beginning to look rosy for "Duke" Nelson and the Panthermen. The next game is scheduled for the seventeenth against a heavily favored Dartmouth club, after which Midd closes out the season at home against New Hampshire. It isn't a prolonged future but things may turn out a lot better than expected before the season opened. Should the stickhandlers manage to pick up victories in these last two stands it will be the first "500" season here at Midd since the inception of the sport four long years ago.

Golf Team Is 20th In NEIGA

By Gerry Raymond

Hindered by Vermont's annual spring rains which prevented practice and washed out the Vermont State Intercollegiate meet scheduled previously for May 10 and 11, the Panther golf team traveled to Watertown, Mass., to compete with 26 other colleges in the New England Intercollegiate Golf Association tournament on May 14 and 15. Middlebury, with all its men except captain Dick Davenport hitting in the low 80's, made a rather unimpressive showing by placing 20th.

The University of Connecticut teemen took top honors with Dartmouth and Williams tied for second and Harvard taking third. Individual honors for the tournament were won by Ted Cooney of Harvard. Cooney

Middlebury Downs Union 12-10 Loses To UVM By 5-0 Count

By O. S. Morton

After suffering a 5-0 shutout defeat at the hands of Vermont, at Burlington, May 13, Middlebury's baseball squad, on Dick Makin's three run homer in the last of the eighth, outlasted Union College, 12-10, at Middlebury on May 15. The Panthers currently possess a three and five record with five games remaining to be played.

Coach Bobo Sheehan's team ran into the best hurling UVM had to offer as Catamount ace Plender extended his consecutive scoreless innings total to thirty-two, allowing the Panthers only five scattered singles. Chuck Smith started on the mound for Middlebury and granted all five Vermont runs on ten hits, all singles. Pete Read relieved him with one out in the eighth, and quelled the late inning rally by the Catamounts. Bob Keating collected two of the Panthers' five bingles, while Bob Ducharme, Rog Tirone, and Dick Makin garnered one apiece.

After tallying a single run in the bottom of the third, the defending state champions combined four singles, two walks, two errors, and a pair of stolen bases, to jump to a 4-0 lead in the fourth. They got their final score in the eighth when Read took over the pitching chores from Smith. At present, UVM is undefeated in state play while Midd possesses a 2-1 slate against like competition, with victories over Norwich and St. Michaels. If and when the rainout of the May 10 contest against St. Michaels is played, Middlebury must win this encounter, in addition to their remaining games with Vermont and Norwich, both home affairs, to tie for the state title.

Last Saturday's game against the Garnet of Union was marked by frequent extra base hits and sloppy fielding by both clubs. Each collected two doubles, a triple, and a home run, while committing a total of 13 errors. The Panthers started lefthander Dick Whitney, but Dick McDonald, who replaced Whitney in the third, was declared the winner, McDonald also needing relief, from Pete Read, who hurled a scoreless ninth. Grinnell, the second of two Union moundsmen, was the loser.

Dick Makin slides into home plate past the Union catcher (3) after blasting his eighth inning round tripper in last Saturday's ball game. The clout, which came with two men aboard and the Panthers trailing 10-9, provided the winning runs for Middlebury.

Union opened scoring matters in the first inning with two unearned runs on four Panther errors, two by second baseman Ducharme, who was immediately replaced by Billy Ellis. Jim Wagner began Middlebury's half of the same frame with a long triple to right center. He waited on third while Keating went down swinging and Ellis grounded out, but scored Midd's initial run when Makin whacked a three-two pitch to left field for a single, collecting the first of his four RBI's. The Garnet got another score in the second on a walk to starting hurler Booth and a double by Drescher. The Panthers came back with a run in the bottom of the second when Cooney doubled to left center, stole third, and rode home Whitney's single to left.

In the top of the third Union scored three times to take a 6-2 advantage. After a single, a base on balls, and another single had loaded the bases, catcher Henry tallyed on Keating's wild throw home. Two straight wild pitches by Whitney brought in the other runners and McDonald replaced Whitney on the hill while Zip Rausa came in to catch. Middlebury promptly knotted the count six-all in the last of the fourth, when singles by Tom Seamans and Ellis, Wagner's two-base hit, an error, a hit batsman, two stolen bases, and a wild pitch gave them four big runs.

Union went ahead, 7-6, with a run in the fifth, but the Panthers put together Seamans' second base hit and three Union misplays to take an 8-7 advantage at the end of five. Third baseman Tighe of the visitors gave them the lead once againg with a tremendous two run homer to left in the seventh.

The Last Word

By Artie Goldberg

As anyone can easily deduce from all the nostalgia being tossed around in this vicinity, it appears that the time has come for one last look back at the year in sports at Middlebury to see what were the highlights, outstanding performances and most vivid memories, and so wrap up 1953-54 and make way for the new year commencing next fall.

To begin at the beginning, things started rolling some eight months ago, when Duke Nelson's footballers upset a favored Wesleyan team by a 12-7 count, led by the tailbacking of Pete Aldrich. A few weeks later, on Homecoming day, the Panthers fought it out with Williams in one of the most dramatic games ever seen in Porter Field. After the Ephmen had pushed over the only score of the game, Middlebury came surging back with a thrilling last minute drive that just missed evening the score. Finally, there is the memory of the 7-0 win over UVM in a driving rain and a sea of mud, that few who saw it will forget.

Partially obscured however, by all the furor over the pigskin, were the efforts of a long-legged freshman named Robin Hegemeyer, who week after week led the pack around the golf course, much to the delight of Coach Brown, and in the process, leveled Rog May's old cross-country record.

Moving indoors with the colder weather, basketball dominated the picture, with the high spot of the otherwise disappointing season being the tough two point overtime loss to Dartmouth and the all-star play of Sonny Dennis in leading the New England tourney in scoring. A little later on came the flashing skates at the other end of the field house, climaxed by the two games with RPI in which the Panthers, with O'Keefe and Binning leading the way, held the N. C. A. A. champions, artificial ice and all, to 4-2 victories both times

Meanwhile out on the slopes, ski captain Les Streeter was in the process of grabbing four Skimeister awards in a row and the team as a whole managed to climb on top of the heap in the Eastern Championships after dogging the footsteps of the Dartmouth Indian in three Winter Carnivals.

That brings us up to date with the baseball, tennis, golf, track and lacrosse seasons still to be completed. So far it looks like Sonny Dennis' four straight victories including a ten second 100 over a muddy track in the Trinity meet and Dick Makin's eighth frame game winning homer against Union will be the big news of the spring.

Well there they are, only the highlights of the 1953-54 sports campaigns. There were also many hours of endless practice and discouraging defeats that go unhearalded and unnoticed, which most people won't recall and there were disappointments too, all of which are perenially heartened by the traditional "Wait Till Next Year."

Panthers Fail In Dual Meet Vs. Engineers

By Zip Rausa

The Middlebury Track Team found the going a little tough last weekend as the Engineers from RPI marched to a 75 to 50 victory in Troy, N. Y. This meet marked the first loss for Middlebury in their three dual meets of the 1954 season.

Harry Myers and Bob Webb captured first and second places in both the 100 and 220 yard dashes with Meyers registering two good times of 10.1 and 23 seconds. Steve Evans ran the 440 yard dash in 52.9 seconds and was the only Middlebury placer beating Parkinson and Wilson of the Engineers. RPI also took all three places in the 880 yard dash with Reif, Murray and Gottscholl the winners.

Pete Redman won the mile event beating Gottscholl of the opponents and Stan Hayward of the Panthers. The freshman's time was 4:41.8. Redman and Hayward returned to place second and third respectively in the 2 mile race but couldn't surpass the Engineer entry Gilmore who crossed the finish line at 10:34.3.

Bill Holmes was the only Middlebury placer in the hurdle events as he captured third in both the 120 yard high's and the 220 yard low's. Akerson and Gilmore took first and second places with good times in both races. Akerson in the high's finished in 16.3 seconds while Gil-

BUSH LEAGUE

The Old Scribe

Balmy days are here again, and as we all know, good weather means lots of softball. This past week was marked by a flurry of activity at Lang Field in a desperate effort to complete the '54 softball schedule on time. Unfortunately, due to pressing engagements, the Old Scribe was unable to attend many of these contests, but he learns from reliable sources that the Sig Epers continued their winning ways in royal style by taking the Neutrals and the Phi Tau's in tow.

Against the Neutrals, Wollenberg & Co. put twelve runs together as against eight for the losers in a mad exhibition of hits and errors. For the winners, Wally was high man with a double and a single, while Rice's triple and Burges' home run and double held up for the losers. In their next outing, the fun boys did themselves proud by coming from behind in the seventh to edge the Phi Tau's 4-3. Sparkling George Devine blanked the Sig Epers until the fateful seventh, when the roof caved in. Leading 3-0, he allowed Sig Ep bats to tie it up, and then stood back and gawked as Roger Gilman raced home with the winning tally. For the losers, Studley's triple and Kunzman's double featured.

Next tussel found the Ranchers squeeking past a vastly improved TC outfit by a 13-12 count. The combined blows of Olson and Booth (triplets), Heggen (double), and Van Schaict (four singles), proved a little too strong for McKissock and Hoyt, who had two home runs and four singles respectively.

Theta Chi then surprised the softball world by holding the powerful Slugs to a 12-12 tie. Dalrymple's three singles and Cheney's triple were the big blows for the TC frat, while Terhune's three and Curtis' two hits were taps for the Slugs.

Against the hapless DU club, the Slugs pushed across the season's high, as they scored 28 to the losers 8. Feature of the game was Ed Thomson's grand slammer, which when backed up by the homers of Curtis (2), and Gleason, and an Emory triple, served well in putting the Slugs out in front to stay. For the winless DU's, Sanders had two triples, Jones one, and Johnson 3 singles.

The ever winning DKE's next grabbed the spotlight, as they dumped the Neutrals and the KDR's for their fifth and sixth triumphs. Against the Neutrals, they pounded out nine hits which included a Chet Walter old goldie, a Gould triple, and a Heller double. Altogether, it added up to 18 runs. Big Neutral bats belonged to Rice, with a double and a triple, and Baker with a home run. They got seven tallys.

Against the KDR's, the DKE's put together a shabby team, but managed to eke it out 13-10. Chet Walter again led the parade with three triples, but received ample help from newcomers Mears (1 hit, 2 RBI), and Wilson, whose single in the sixth brought across the winning marker. Atkins and Ulmer, two KDR stalwarts, led the Rancher hitting with Herbie banging out three, and Gordie finding two for two.

Just about the biggest news of the week was the upset of the highly regarded ATO's at the hands of the Chipsies. Being no bunch of weak sisters themselves, the Chi Psi's capitalized on the timely hitting of MacClurg and Hanau, together with a few breaks, to find themselves with 14 markers. In spite of two hits by Joseph, and Goldberg's double, the ATO's could only put 12 together, and thus suffered their first setback. However, these never say die losers came back against the DU's by a 13-9 count. In this fray, it was Goldberg again, this time with four hits, and Kern with a triple who spelled doom for the winless DU's. Bright spots on a losing team were Binning and Crowder, who both played well.

As many of you know, this is the last issue of the year, which means the Old Scribe will be hanging up his pencil 'till fall. The final outcomes in softball, track, and total intramural standings are, of course, not yet known, but Percy, the Fear-shaped prophet, predicts that the DKE's will cop softball honors, Theta Chi the track laurals, and KDR the overall glory. Here's the way things stand as of this moment.

was a first day medalist with his low of 71, par for the Oakley Country Club course. Davenport's score of 77 was one stroke too many to qualify him for a berth among the 16 top golfers of the tournament.

Midd's team score of 334 was unusually high since the Watertown green offered no difficulties except the narrow fairways which cause long drives to go sailing out of bounds into the streets.

The Vermont State Intercollegiates have been rescheduled for May 24 and 25. At Burlington, the six Panther golfers will face teams from Norwich, St. Michael's and UVM. Today's meet at Clarkson and tomorrow's at St. Lawrence will round out the 1954 golf season. Next year's team will miss the club-work of Captain Davenport and its veteran golfer, Jim Hunt, who are lost through graduation.

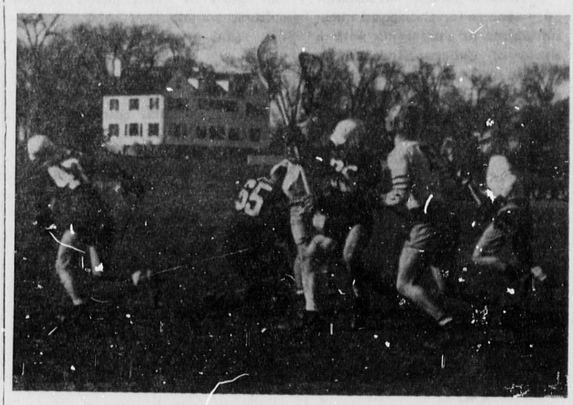
In the pole vault event the winning height of 10 feet was good enough to give three Engineers the three places. RPI continued the sweep as hey took the high jump with a 5 foot 8¼ inch leap by Gilmore. Pfeifler and Westfall tied for third for the Panthers. Again the Engineers took three places as Hall leaped 19 feet 10½ inches to win the Broad Jump. Laumeister continued piling up RPI points as he put the shot 39 feet 9¼ inches to beat the Middlebury entry, Pfeifler. Captain Bob Kloster threw the discus 126 feet to beat his teammate John Snell and the RPI entry Bock. However Gilmore came back to throw the javelin 146 feet to win over Steve Evans and Russ Briggs, both of the Panthers.

Final tabulations showed RPI an impressive winner with 75 points compared to Middlebury's 50.

A small group of Panther Trackmen journeyed to Boston this past weekend to compete in the E. I. C.-A. A. meet. However, Pete Redman, by placing fourth in the mile event was the only scorer. The Panthers meet Union on Tuesday of this week but will not participate as scheduled in the E. E. I. C. A. A. A. meet which will be held next weekend. However, the Vermont State Meet will see Middlebury return to action on the 24th of May for their last appearance of the season.



With only two games remaining on their 1954 schedule, the Panther lacrosse team has to date turned in the best record in the history of the sport at Midd for Duke Nelson, who took over the coaching duties this season.

A random sample of Middlebury seniors have received questionnaires in connection with a Study of College Student Retention and withdrawal which is being conducted by the United States Office of Education. Middlebury is one of 170, out of 1600, institutions throughout the country that has been asked to cooperate in this study. A sample, chosen entirely by lot, of the half million students who entered college as freshmen in 1950 are being asked questions relating to their reasons for going to college, their reactions to college experiences, academic interests, and time devoted to work and to outside activities. The study is an attempt to determine what factors lead to a student's continuance through four years at a given institution and what reasons cause a student's withdrawal or transfer.
